Alarming Reports of Loss of Life | His Counsel and Mrs. Dreyfus Vis- It is 24 Inches High and Occur ited the Noted Prisoner

Matthieu Dreyfus Has an Interview With His Celebrated Brother Lasting Half an Hour.

RENNER, July 5.—It is impossible to imagine a town eaimer than Rennes. The inhabitants continue absolutely indifferent to the presence of Dreyfus. Nearly half a dozen persons witnessed the visits of counsel and Mme. Dreyfus to the prison Tuesday. The town, however, is full of detectives, who scrutinize all strangers, and a few gendarases are patrolling before the residence of Mme. Deprine atopy and the proposed of the residence of Mme. Deprine atopy and the residence of Mme. Deprine atopy approach on the gate leading to the court yard of the mansion.

Matthieu Dreyfus paid his first visit to his brother at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the interview lasting half an hour. The brothers threw themselves into each other's arms. Matthieu said he found his brother aged and broken in health, but not the physical wreck he feared. In spite of his sufferings Dreyfus'eye-areas bright and his mind as clear and his intelligence as keen as when he was occupied with his duties on the general staff. He was troubled with insomnia during the voyage, but has now recovered, and Monday night he had a refreshing sleep. The prisoner is still suffering from dysentery, but it is now slight and there is every reason to believe he will rapidly recuperate his forces. Naturally he is under medical treatment.

He is extremely reserved as to his life on Devil's island, which has left an indelible impression and remains in his memory as a horrible nightmare. Dreyfus looks back to his existence of the past four years with relief, tinged with a feeling of the horror of a sane man who has escaped from a mad house. He declares his brain is almost receing in the face of the mass of documents and explanations Mine. Demange and Labori are bringing out regarding.

in the face of the mass of documents and explanations Mmc. Demange and Labori are bringing out regarding the extraordinary machinations of his enemies and the persevering devotion of his friends. Dergus is astounded and full of heartfelt gratitude at their self-scarfide. This feeling is particularly strong as regards Col. Piequart, whom he hardly remembers, and the story of whose persecution has profoundly moved him.

Capt. Dreyfus was unable to talk freely with his brother owing to the presence of the officer, who is under instructions to be present at all interviews between the prisoner and members of his family. This arrangement has been a terrible trial to Mmc. Dreyfus and the rest, as they have been obliged to restrain their emotions so far as possible, and have been unable to converse as to intimate matters, because every word has been overheard and every gesture watched by the office.

Chicago, July 5.—Forty-horse power, or about ten times as much as the best engines develop a 1 present with a half inch feed, will, according to the claims of the inventor, be extracted claims of the inventor, be extracted motor which will be inspected by Adm. Melville, which of the bureau of steam engines of the United States navy, some time this month in this city.

The motor is 3s inches high and occupies a space about 30 inches square on the floor. It is practically noiseless and has no packing in any of the parts. With slight variations it is modeled after a smaller one, which has been successfully operated by both steam and liquid air, and through which the retired, was enlisted. Through him the bureau of engineering became interested.

The machine is comp-sed of two disks, one revolving within the other on a separate axle in an opposite direction and all incased in a metal box of irregular shape. Each disk is forged into alternate spaces and partitions. The spaces are three-sixteenths of an inch wide and have parallel sides. The blades inch thick. These alternating spaces and partitions are cut on the disk at such an angle that the stoam, which is fed through the axle or shaft, passes through the spaces on the disk are such an angle that the stoam, which is fed through the axle or shaft, passes through the spaces on the disk are such an angle that the stoam, which is fed through the axle or shaft, passes through the spaces on the disk are right angle, thus propelling the second disk in the opposite direction.

By this arrangement one of the disk revolves in one direction and the other in the opposite, the power of both by a reversing gear connected with one of them. The force of the steam utilized is that of pressure and not of impact. The motor extracts approximately all of the power in the steam before it reaches the circumference of the disk, and therein, according to the inventor, J. F. Brady, of this city, lies its superiority over other mechanisms.

The machine is adaptable to either high or low pressure, the friction is reduced to the minimum, and the adjustment of feed is automatic.
